Introduction to the scenic spots:

* Kaohsiung:

The second largest city in Taiwan, it's a harbor city that boasts nostalgic ancient streets, and with famed spots such as Liuhe Night Market, the Love River, and Urban Spotlight.

* ChengChing Lake:

Dubbed the "West Lake" of Taiwan, this place boasts Jiuchu Bridge (with nine winding arcs) which is modeled after the the Jiuchu Bridge at Shanghai's Chenghuang Temple and therefore is named Jiuchu Bridge.

* Lotus Lake:

Because "the lake is full of lotus and therefore named Lotus Lake." When the lotus flowers are booming, the lake is flooded with fragrant smell and therefore earns the name "lotus fragrance dissolving in water." It's one of the eight famed scenic spots in Fengshan County.

* Taiwan High Speed Rail:

Officially inaugurated on March 2, 2007, Taiwan High Speed Rail puts a trip from Kaohsiung to Taipei within only 90 minutes.

* National Palace Museum:

One of the four famous museums in the world, it's known around the world for its antiques such as Jade Lettuce.
